Course Information: Our Thai Herbal Compress course includes the theory and history behind the Thai Compresses and covers the pressure techniques, including massaging techniques needed when using hot compresses . Contra-indications, consultation forms, aftercare guidance is also covered. Prior to attending you are supplied with an anatomy reference manual and a pre course workbook, both of which are to be read before attending.

The healing practice of Thai herbal compress therapy dates back nearly 5,000 years, to an era when the knowledge of plants, including their effects through ingestion or application on the body, were painstakingly researched and then passed down from one generation to the next. In Thailand, the herbal compress is called luk pra kob, translated as “herbal pressing sphere.”

This herbal therapy was designed to relieve pain and inflammation. A selection of therapeutic herbs, including prai, ginger, turmeric and lemongrass, are wrapped in a muslin compress, steamed and then applied to the body in gentle pressing, circular and rolling movements. Compresses can be reused until the herbs are no longer active.

Some of the many benefits include:

- Continuous heat therapy being applied
- It induces deep relaxation, relieves stress and fatigue
- Pulled muscles, aches and pains are soothed
- boosts both emotional and physical well-being
- assists alignment and postural integrity of the body
- improves circulation of blood and lymph
- stimulates the internal organs
